

Kurt Campbell is an experienced Guyanese journalist and newly co-opted executive member of the Guyana Press Association.

With over a decade in the media industry, Kurt has contributed to leading news outlets such as News Room Guyana, NCN Guyana, iNews Guyana, and News Source Guyana. His work spans political reporting, investigative features, and human-interest stories that centre communities and give voice to the underrepresented.

A recipient of the RAF Memorial Fellowship (2016) and an alumnus of the U.S. Department of State's International Visitor Leadership Programme (IVLP), Kurt has benefited from international exposure on media best practices and government press operations. He brings this perspective to the GPA as he advocates for strengthening ethical journalism, press freedom, and the professional development of local reporters.

Raised on the East Coast of Demerara, Kurt is passionate about telling stories that matter, building bridges across the Caribbean and beyond, and supporting young journalists as they navigate an evolving media landscape.

He attended President's College and holds tertiary qualifications in journalism and media communication.
